Related in a Letter from the Eltrick Shepherd. Dava Sin, —Vesterolay there was a poor man marned Thomas Henderson came to eur door, and presented me with a letter from a valued friend. I was kim to the man; and as an acknowledgment, he gave me his history in that plain, simple, and drawing style, which removed all doubts of its authenticity. It is not deserving of a recital but as I am opnisantly on the look out for fundamental doculments of any sort relating to Socialand, there was one little and the control of the cont

My comely, my beautiful, my murdered boy!"

Here Lady Juha burst into the most violent and passionate grief, shricking and weeping like one in distraction. I was terrified out of a' bounds but I couldna help thinking to mysell what a strange unconsistent creature a woman was, first to take away a dear little boy's life, and then rair and scraugh over what she had done, like a madwoman. Her passion was say violent and sae loud that I coudna take up what the auld crone was saying, shithough her tongue never lay for a moment; but I thought a' the time that she was trying to pacify and comfort Lady Julia; and I thought I heard her saying that the boy wasna murdered. Now, thinks I, that dings a' that ever I heard! If a man aince understands a woman, he needna be feared to try ought in nature.

"Now here they are, my Lady July, just as your own fair hands laid them. There's no sne o' them out o' its place yet. There they a' lie, little an' muckle, frae the crown o' the head to the soles o' the feet."

Mr. Serjeant Bosanquer, in support of the role, observed that the Bank of England were nominal defendants in this case. It was clear that the plaintiff's title most depend upon that of Messrs, Other. The parties were agents for each other, and each was answerable to the other for the paper remitted. The plaintiff had advanced no money on the note. He had merely received it in part payment of a balance due to him from Messrs. But with these the interest of the palace, in the eyes of a lover of the arts, is altogether terminated. The upholsterer and the gilder have done their utmost in its decoration,—brocade, and crystal, and mar--brocade, and crystal, and mar its decoration,—brocade, and crystal, and mar-bie are lavished on every side,—but pictures there are none. Soon after the union of his sister with Jerome Bonaparts, the Prince of Wurtemberg, in order to avoid an alliance proposed for him by Napolson with the lovely Stephanic Heauharnate, afterwards Grand Duchess of Baden, formed an optensible marriage with a Bavarian Princess. terwards Grand Duchess of Baden, formed an ostensible marriage with a Bavarian Princess, under a mutual understanding that it should be dissolved the first favourable opportunity. On the downfall of the Emperor in 1814, a divorce accordingly took place; the Princess of Bavaria became the wife of the present Emperor of Austria, and the King of Wurtemberg, in uniting himself with his cousin the Duchess of Oldenburg, began a new and unexpected career of happiness. Sharing the activity and energetic mind of her brother, Alexander of Russia, this accomplished Princess appears to have laboured accomplished Princess appears to have laboured incessantly for the improvement and embellishment of Stuttgardt, and of the kingdom at large. If, indeed, such regrets have power to "please the pensive ghost." the late Queen, who appears to have been peculiarly tenacious of the regard of posterity, must be fully gratified. In compliance with her death-bed entreaty, a meuntain called the Kahlenstein, within view of Stuttgardt, has been nurchased and a noble manuscleam exceted on chased and a noble mausoleum erected on Greek priests will be employed, to all eternity, in prayers for the repose of her soul. It is a singular circumstance, that the King of Wurtemberg should have celected for the site of the summet palace new executing under his own immediate inspection, a spot whence the Kalilenstein and its monument form a prominent and beautiful object, and that his Majesty's taste and preficiency in and that his Majesty's taste and preficiency the fine arts appear to have sholly expended themselves upon the stately mausoleum of his wife, and his elegant villa of Rosenstein, upon the Canstatt road. This graceful little palace consists of a single story constructed by an Italian architect, and richly decorated with fresence by Italian artists. Frederick William, unsee by Italian artists. Frederick William, un-stended, and with his usual manly plainness of frees and address, may be seen there daily in-secting the progress of their labours; and du-ng the summer residence of the court at Fried-ichehall on the Lake of Constance, he indulges in an axcu on mto Italy to collect objects of when a courses mits that to collect objects of virtue, and sequent himself with the trents of its living artists. middle ages; neither improvement nor aggregation have invaded their ancient extent or fashioning; and the stiff effigies of former Dukes of Wartemberg, in complete armour, which commonly decorate the fountains or market-places, still fix their stony stars upon co-existent dwellings and familiar sustoms. These dwellings, cross-barred by external black beams, look, like Shakapeare's house at Straford-on-Avon, mounted upon stills; the close streets admit but a single cart or carriage; the peasant guits stand vacantly gazing upon the passengers, guls stand vacantly gazing upon the passengers, unconsciously plying their distaffs;—spinning and hasting, and the distillation of Kirschennesser, appear indeed to be the sole manufacture pursued in these agricultural provinces. In fact, the Constitution recently accorded by the fact, the Constitution recently accorded by the King, although it has relieved his unenlightened subjects from their iron hondage, has not obliterated the ravages of former abuses;—the chains are gone, but the impression of their grievous galling yet remains.

From this rude kingdom, however, the empire of Germany has received some of its most precious gifts of literature and learning. Cetta, the distinguished librarian, is resident at Stuttgardt; and the "Allgemeins Zeitung" and "Morgenblatt," two leading continental journals, issue from his press. The general society of the city, although more limited than that of many provincial towns in France or England, is cheerful and elegant. The family of our late ambassador, or, as he was interpreted by fereign accentuation "Milor Hareskin," was highly esteemed. The frequency of the court balls is the chief enlivenment of the higher classes and deplomatic residents.

Altogether Stuttgards presents a new and a tractive scene; and although it may be viewed and appreciated with a single glance, the beauty of its environs frequently tempts to a prolonged passe. The early autumn is the scanon I should recommend for a visit.

PHILADELPHIA:

WEDNESDAY EVENING, JULY 22, 1620.

At a late hour, this morning, we received our files of London and Livekroot papers to the 7th and 8th of June, brought by the packet MONONGAHELA. The intelligence from the DANUBE confirms the reports of sanguinary combats near SILISTRIA, but as will be seen from some of the few extracts which we have time to give, their immediate results are not yet certainly ascertained. The Expunon was to leave WARRAW on the 2nd of June. The papers are chiefly filled with parlia mentary proceedings and domestic intelligence and discussions. The STANDARD arserts that Lord LYXDIURST and Mr. PERL are about to retire from the Ministry. The Earl of Rossievy is said to have been anpointed to the Privy Seal, but we observe no official annuaciation of this. Several among the gentlemen of the law. A vacancy has occurred on the Episconal bench. by the death of Dr. LLOYD, Bishop of Oxford, and formerly tutor to Mr. PEEL. Lord WHARSCLIFFE's bill to amend the Game Laws was lost, in the House of Lords, on evening, a long debate took place, in the other House, on Sir JAMES MACKINTOSH'S ed himself that all papers relating to affairs between the two countries, with but a single exception, should be laid before the House. Lord PALMERSTON attacked the pacific policy of the government with much warmth, and was loudly cheered. "On the 17th of May, at three o'clock in the morning, the corps reached the village of Almalui, five wersts from Silistria, without having fallen in with the enemy on their march. Here the Commander-in-chief divided his corps into three columns, the right under Lieut-General Bartholomey, the centre under Major-General Laschkiewitch, and the left under Lieutenant-General Krassowsky. The first fell in with the enemy, about 5,000 strong, who occupied some entronchments which were erected last year, two wersts from Silistria. A brisk attack made by a regiments of Cossacks, under the eye of the commander-in-chief, upon a mass of Turkish cavalry posted upon the heights, was the signal for a general battle. The infantry, which quickly followed, attacked with equal zeal; the enemy was broken, and, in less than a quarter enemy was broken, and, in less than a quarter of an hour, driven from all the works which he occupied on that point: the centre column fol-lowed this example, but the left column met with greater resistance; and, as it had a longer march to make, it did not arrive till two o'clock in the afternoon. A man by the name of William McNiel, aged about 45, having a wife and children, and for some years past a hanger-on about the village of Cooperstown, N. Y. was found on Saturday

An instance of expeditious travelling is mentioned in the Herald, which is deserving of notice. A party of six left St. Johns on the 25th ultimo, at one o'clock, and reached Whitehall the following morning at five. They left Whitehall in the stage, and arrived at Troy, a distance of 68 miles, in seven hours and fifty seven minutes, and at Albany before four o'clock. The parties were to proceed to New York in the steamboat Ohio at five, and would in all probability complete their journey of 370 miles in 38 hours from the time of their leaving St. Johna.—Montreel Gasette.

On Sunday, the 5th inst. about neon, the bedy of an unknown man was found dead, floating in the water near the shore of East Bay, in the town of Port Bay, in this county. A jury of inquest was called by Coroner Edwards on Monday morning. After examising the body, the jury brought m a verdict of wilful murder, by some person or persons unknown. He appeared to have received two blows upon his head, one above the right eye, the temple bone being fracturedigand the eye started from its socket: the other blow was on the back part of the head, and a quantity of blood settled under the wound. On the fore part of his pantaloons considerable blood was discovered, and a small skein of thread was fastened tight about his neck. The deceased was about five feet nine inches high, about 40 years old, stout made, had on a black mixed satinett coat and vest, pantaloons coarse, cravat considerably worn, a new American factory shirt, and a pair of high quartered calf-skin shoes, about two-thirds worn. A black napped hat was found in the water about a week previous, near where the body was found, which probably belonged to the deceased. No furthes information has as yet been obtained in reference to this shocking event. It has, however, produced much excitement in that part of the country, and we understand every possible effort is making to detect the perpetrator of this horrid crime.

Cambridge, Md. July 11.—On Thursday, the 2d inst. a negro man, named Jim Barney, the property of Mr. John Council, whilst at work in the harvest field, became very ungovernable.—Mr. Slaughter, his employer, remonstrated with him, but in return had to receive the abuse of the fellow, as he was armed with a scythe; on going to the kitchen, he was very insolent to the family. Mr. Slaughter, with the assistance of Mr. Nathan Kernes, attempted to chastise him. Whilst Mr. Kernes was engaged with the fellow, he drew a shoc-knife from his pocket and stabbed him in several places, one of which entered above his left breast and penetrated his heart. Mr. Kernes, from loss of blood, fell, and Mr. Slaughter then closed with the fellow: he made several deadly thrusts at Mr. Slaughter, cut him very severely about the hand and wrist, then succeeded in getting off, and has not yet been arrested. Mr. Kernes survived only about two hours.—Whig.

On Saturday evening a man was taken up, and carried to the watch house in Eldridge street, charged with assaulting his wife. While in the watch-house he became very turbulent, and an order was given by the Captain of the night for his close confinement. While Ellison, the watchman, was conveying him to the dungeon, the prisoner drew a knife and stabbed him three times in his breast. Another watchman who went to Elliston's assistance was severely wounded in the hand, and a third watchman coming up struck at the prisoner, but so desperate had be become that he wounded the third watchman.—N. In noticing a celebration of the 4th of July, near Raloigh, (N. C.) the Register states that "Mr. Arthur Wall, now in his 199th year,—was particularly invited; he excused himself on account of being 'busy with his crop,' but said he would send one of his boys, a lad of 82, with his toast. No toasts, however, were drunk, for there were no intoxicating liquors on the ground. Long before the shades of the evening, the gratified company, after a day of sober and rational enjoyment, departed for their homes, with improved national and neighbourhood feelings."

Unprotected Trade of our Southwestern Frontier.—The following letter to the Editor, from a respectable citizen of Miller county, we doubt not speaks the sentiments of every inhabitant of this section of our Territory; and we do not know that we can better subserve the interests of those interested, than by laying it be-terests of those interested, than by laying it before the public.

MILLER, C. H., June 1st, 1829.

Dear Sir,—The troops stationed at Cantonment Towson will doubtless leave there for Cantonment Jessup, by the 15th inst. at farthest, which will leave this frontier in a deplorably helpless condition—exposed on two sides, for a distance of upwards of 300 miles, to numerous hostile Indians.

hostile Indians.
"It is impossible to ascertain with any degree the number of precision the number of warriors that the un-friendly tribes of Chamancha, Pawnee, and Wa-coe Indians can bring into the field—but it is generally estimated at not less than 30,000.— When the present frontier settlers remove, which they are preparing to do immediately, it will still leave an exposed frontier, which will require the strong arm of Government to protect them. I am astonished at the removal of the troops, I am astonished at the removal of the troops, and am at a loss to account for the cause—but expect it has grown out of some false representations, the result of private prejudice. Though I am prepared to remove immediately, yet the same strong reasons exist for keeping up an efficient armed force in this quarter; and I would suggest the propriety of the dignitaries of our land using their influence with the Government, for the purpose of procuring relief for the unfortunate and unprotected inhabitants of this exposed frontier. I have spoken to Col. Sevier on the subject, who is decidedly opposed to the removal of the troops, and offers to render us all the assistance in his power."

"All is herry and confusion here, to get from this neglected region, and out of the reach of the devastation and ruin which is anticipated from the hostile Indians, on the withdrawal of the troops. and am at a loss to account for the cause-but troops.

"Some of the unfriendly Indians have recently "Some of the unfriendly Indians have recently stolen a number of horses, and it is believed that two of the friendly Indians have failen victims to the tomahawks. This creates considerable excitement among our citizens, who look upon it as only a prelude to what will follow this abandonment of the post of Cantonment Towson, unless they also remove and seek new homes elsewhere. The giving up the fairest portions of this section of the Territory to the Chesters Indians certainly cannot usatify the portions of this section of the Territory to the Choctaw Indians, certainly cannot justify the Government in sacrificing the lives and property of those of her citizens who are still left on the frontier. They are entitled to the paternal care and protection of their rulers, and I ardently hope they will not always be neglected."

President Jackson has ordered from Messrs.

Bakewell, Page & Bakewell's, of the city of Pritaburgh, a set of Glass for his own use. That order is nearly completed. We had last week an opportunity of witnessing this very splendid ex hibition of American skill and ingenuity. It consists of large and splendid bowls, with and without stands—calery glasses, pitchers, quart and pint decanters, tumblers, wine and champaign glasses, salts, &c. &c. the whole tastefully executed in the very best style of workmanship. The glass is as pellucid as chrystal; and the beautiful cuttings give a brilliancy of effect not july 21—31.

It is very gratifying to winese the great perfection to which our artists have arrived in the various objects to which their skill and enterprise have been directed. We understand that

SURGICAL OPERATION.

The Louisville Focus, Ky. of the 7th inst. describes a difficult and interesting operation in surgery, performed in that city, by Doctor Edward Johnson, formerly of Chesterfield county, Virginia. 'The disease was an enlargement of the lower jaw bone, technically denominated an ostoe-sarcoma.' It occurred in a healthy negro, and commenced about 13 years ago from a decayed tooth, the disease of which had effected the socket in the bone. The enlargement went on slowly for nine or ten years; but latterly it increased faster, and began to endanger the life of the patient by its pressure on the throat.—After the bony tumor was taken out, it weighed 18 1-2 oz. and measured 12 8-4 inches in circumference.'

18 1-2 oz. and measured 12 8-4 inches in circumfrence.

A very particular description is given of the operation, which resulted favorably. A month had elapsed, and the patient was evidently recovering. The jaw bone itself was sawed in two, and the carious parts were taken out, and a cap of sheet lead in the natural form of the chin was put on to give the parts a proper shape. In most cases, the operators have deemed it necessary to tie the caroted artery; but in this case it was preserved. Much praise is given to Dr. J. for the skill and judgment he displayed, in the presence of several members of the Faculty, and other citizens.

between it and real stucco work, unless by a near approach.

There are five altars; the grand one in the centre of the chancel is almost finished, and will be a piece of exquisite workmanship. All the stalls, railing, and other wood works of the chancel, are made of black walnut, which has an appearance truly becoming the solemnity of the place. The appearance of the edifice, when viewed from the grand altar, is truly magnificent, and presents a cosp d'ail at once grand and sublime. We believe it will be considered no exaggeration to say, this church, when finished, will excel any house of worship in America, in architectural beauty, size, and beauty of design.

Norfolk, July 20.—In the Schr. John Stillman, Capt. Joseph Noble, which arrived here on Saturday evening last from Salem, Ms. came passenger Mr. John Cowan, of that town, who was immediately taken before the Mayor and upon hearing the grounds of his arrest and confinement on board the J. S., was committed for further examination into his case. We have learned the following particulars of his conduct on the passage, which we have no hesitation in ascribing to derangement of mind.

For several days previous to leaving Salem, Cowan was in a state of inebristion. Although his deportment in general the first day out, appeared rational, he made to two of the crew the monstrous proposal to murder the Captain, take possession of the vessel, and proceed to the West Indies. Believing that he was jesting, the seaman to whom he made it treated his proposal with derision. Until Thursday night following, no part of his conduct excited particular attention. On that night he went to the Captain's birth, and after awaking him, said, that he had overheard some person on deck threatening to throw him overboard, and on his knees in plored his protection.—The Captain assured him of his protection, but told him that no such design existed against him, and that he was mistaken as to what he had heard. He became composed, and retired to his birth. On Friday and Saturday he appeared much disturbed in mind and very melancholy, and could not be prevailed on at night to retire to rest. At half past 2 o'clock on Sunday morning, he went to the Captain's birth with a very sharp axe, and male three successive blows at him, wounding him severyly on the right hand and slightly on the left leg, and threatening, with an oath, that he would kill him. The crew came immediately to the assistance of the captain, when Cowan was secured and confined in the forward on HART & SON, puty 22—6t

Sugar and Molosses—The sales as before remarked, are principally confined to the city, and in small lots. The demand cannot be considered brisk.

Tobacco—We find dealers of the opinion that there is but little in first hands for sale, and that good merchantable lots will readily command 3, 4 a 5 cents for crossed, seconds and first. Flour of good sweet quality, and favorite brands are becoming scarce among the bakers, and looking up in price, while inferior or partially sour is more plenty and neglected.

Pork—Of good quality is scarce and in but few hands, which causes the present holders to be firm in anticipation of better prices.

THE RELIGIOUS MAGAZINE,

THE RELIGIOUS MAGAZINE,
No. 20, for August, 1829.
CONTENTS.—Three Years in Italy, from the Christian Observer; Scriptural Bustrations, from the Spirit and Manners of the Aug ; the Frenct of Dran, from the Westryan Nathadist Magazine; On the Influence of the Scheme of Redomption, from the Christian Kananiser; Easy on Divine Love, from the Christian Kananiser; Easy on Divine Love, from the Epirican Manners of the Aq; The Prophedes, from the Spirit and Manners of the Aq; The Prophedes, from the Spirit and Manners of the Aq; The Prophedes, from the Christian Year; On the Knowledge of Christ Crusified, from the Imperial Magazine; Risid Monnier of John Hues, from the Cherch Baptist Repository; Character and last Years of the late Hishap of Durham, from the Control of the Christian Year; St. Malena, from the Wesleyan Methodist Magazine; Roman Catholic Ameliorities against the Thraire, from the London Roman Catholic Miscellany; Modern Millensrianism, from the Eclectic Review; The Sublime Porte, from the Extension Guardian and Church of England Magazine; Hymn, from the Sunday School Tracher's Magazine.

The plan and execution of this Magazine have been nuiversally approved, and it has been schaowiedged to be far chapter, in proportion to the quantity of matter, than any other work of the kind. But it has been schaowiedged to be far chapter, in proportion to the quantity of matter, than any other work of the kind. But it has been said that few persons can command sufficent time to read so much, and that the great mass of the religious community cannot readily pay axia deliars a year. It has, therefore, been determined to commence a new series, in January, 1830, the size of the numbers to be so much lessened that twelve may be bound in one volume, and the price to be four dellars, payable at the end of the year, or three dollars, if paid in advance.

A new volume commenced with the number for July, from which period subscriptions will be received upon the terms above mentioned.

The three volumes already published may be

The Infants' Preservative

The Infants' Preservative

Is confidently recommended to Mothers and Nurses, as an isvaluable remedy to prevent and our most of those complaints incident to young children, particularly those proceeding from a disordered state of the Estonach and Bowels, as the Wind, Watery and Dry Gripes, Restlessness, Convulsions, the Thrush, Sammer Complaint, Ac. &c.

It is also efficacions to Children who are Cutting their Teeth, and if previously used, makes this operation of Nature perfectly mild, and free from danger, by strengthening the whole nervous system, and allaying that excessive artisability of the nervous part of the gums which so frequently occasion Convulsions, Inflammation, Fewer, and even death itself.

The narrealled colsburty which this medicine has acquired in Great Beston, after many years experience, and its efficacy in this Country for some time, with unbounded success, induces the Frepreteor to offer in to the public, naturing them that a trial of its virtues is only requisite to establish the high character it has already obtained; numerous certificates of the cutes it has performed, could be advertised, but a trial of its virtues will be its best commentator.

EXCHANGE COFFEE HOUSE. EXOHANGE COPPEE HOUSE, ST. PAUL. NTREET, MONTREAL.

GOODENOUGH takes the liberty of tenpelie for the liberal support he has received since he opened the Exchange Copper House in this City, and begs to assure them that no exertions shall be wanting to merit a continuance of their favours. Having been induced by the great increase of business to build an extensive addition, and make expensive alterations and repairs, in new finishing and painting—the whole Establishment is now in the most perfect order.

The Exchange Coffee House is more than one third ble the number of Family Parlours and Red rooms of any other similar Establishment in Canada—and furnished in a style superior to any is America.

The LADIES' MUSIC ROOM is furnished with an elegant Plank Fortra and a choice collection of Music.

Attached to the Establishment, and for the exclusive enjoyment of its Guests, is a BATHING HOUSE. In front of the House is the Stack Office—the only place in the City where Seats are taken for Ningura, Albany and Quebec.

From these superior advantages, and his long experience in the business, A. G. flatters bimself that Ladies and stentlemen visiting Montreal will find in the Exchange Coffee House better accommodations than in any other Hotel in Canada.

Ite begs to add, that his Table shall not be unrivalled by any, and that his whole study shall be to render his Gueste comfortable and happy.

Chinese Sensitive Leaf, Chinese Sensitive Leaf, INVESTED BY JAN PRETISTA CHASTICTO.
THESE Leaves, pleasing even at first sight, are able to divert a whole company; their impartial pudgment gives sufficient matter for jocose entertainment; and if care be taken to put them between the leaves of a book, they will never lose their virtue.

To know the temper of a person, place the Leaf in the paim of his or her left hand, and it will immediately more off isself. If the person is of a sanguine temper, it quickly rolls itself up and falls from the hand. If he is of a choleric temper, it rolls my and mo ses towards the wrist if of a philegenatic temper, it will solve its best by bend a kittle and remain in the paim of the hand. In the hand of a person of an even temper, it will store in a very pleasing manner, neither too sast nor too slow, the same as if alive, a person, at first sight, will not know them to be artificial.
